COLUMBIAN WHITE-TAILED DEER

Columbian white-tailed deer (CWTD) were once common throughout the valleys of western Oregon. Two populations of CWTD remain; one along the lower Columbia River and the other in the Umpqua Basin near Roseburg. After being federally listed in 1973, the Oregon populations recovered sufficiently and were removed from the state Endangered Species list in 1995. Efforts by ODFW, other state and federal agencies, Douglas County and private landowners led to the removal of the Roseburg population of the CWTD from the federal Endangered Species list in 2003.

Today, CWTD continue to be protected in all of Western Oregon except for a limited number of controlled hunts in the Roseburg area that specifically list CWTD in the bag limit. Hunters are responsible for distinguishing CWTD from black-tailed deer.

For more tips on field identification of Columbian white-tailed deer vs. Columbian black-tailed deer, see our video at: myodfw.com/big-game-hunting/species/deer

TIPS FOR E-TAGGING

Oregon State Police and ODFW want to remind hunters and anglers that it is your responsibility to e-tag your harvest correctly.

- Download the MyODFW app (which lets you tag when out of cell reception).
- Log into the app before fishing or hunting and be sure your licenses and tags are in your portfolio.
- Buy your big game tag or redeem your SportsPac voucher by the deadline.
 - If you are in an area with poor cell service, toggle your MyODFW app to offline mode (under Settings) or put your phone in Airplane mode to make e-tagging easier.
 - Immediately tag your fish or animal after harvest and enter required information properly.
 - Keep your phone charged—it's your responsibility to be able to show your license and tag to OSP.
 - Using the app's offline mode also helps when using GPS or fish finders that use your WiFi connection.
